Summary of activities

Lighthouse Foundation creates pathways to end youth homelessness, together. We provide young people who are homeless, or at risk of homelessness, with the care and support they need to heal, thrive and achieve a lifelong sense of belonging. Through community collaboration and our evidence-based Lighthouse Model of Care, we create therapeutic homes and deliver tailored support programs to transform the lives of children and young people. Our Lighthouse Homes, Foster and Family Care and In Community care environments ensure our support reaches the children and youth who need it, where they need it, for as long as they need it.

About GiveDirectly

We give cash directly to people living in poverty.

Since 2009, we've delivered $900M+ in cash directly into the hands of over 1.7 million people living in poverty. We currently have operations in DRC, Kenya, Liberia, Malawi, Mozambique, Rwanda, Uganda, and the U.S. Here's how it works:

Giving cash is a hugely scalable poverty solution | The Economist

People in poverty deserve to choose how best to improve their lives.

Traditional aid often decides for people what they need, when they need it, and how they should use it. It's well-intentioned, but often disempowering. Giving cash shifts power to the person living in poverty, recognizing they are the expert in their own lives and granting them the dignity to choose for themselves.

Research finds they spend cash aid in impactful and creative ways.

We read the research. And we did our own research. And it found people use cash on medicine, cows and goats and chickens, school fees, solar panels, tin roofs, irrigation, motortaxis, new businesses and more.

Years later, these investments have raised incomes, lowered malnutrition, and grown the local economy by as much as 2.5x what is given.

And no, they don't just blow it on booze.

It's ok — many people think that at first. But dozens of studies show cash recipients don't work less or drink more on the whole. And men spend it just as well as women.

If you think about it, doesn't giving directly make sense?

Cash allows individuals to invest in what they need, instead of relying on aid organizations and donors thousands of miles away to choose for them. Isn't this what you would prefer?

Our funders and partners think so.

Our programs are funded by individual donors, foundations, businesses, and institutions.

Together, we can end extreme poverty in our lifetimes.

Today, 700 million people are living on less than $2.15/day, and cash transfers are a proven way to accelerate their escape from poverty. By delivering your donations and studying the impact, we aim to demonstrate a path to ending extreme poverty.

In remembrance of Diane Ruby

Diane Ruby served on our board of directors for nearly 10 years, handpicked by our CEO and president because she is precisely the type of loving individual who can identify with and guide the heart-centered work we do at the foundation. Diane was the co-owner of Sheraton Real Estate Management. Diane died on May 24, 2020. She was 63.

HISTORY OF NVCF

The North Valley Community Foundation traces its history to 1989.

It started as the Chico Community Foundation and was formed by the Chico Chamber of Commerce as a way to make tax-deductible donations to benefit the community. Early examples of programs included a graffiti eradication program and Volunteers In Police Service, or VIPS.

The foundation became independent from the Chico Chamber of Commerce in 1996. The foundation decided to expand its geographic scope and changed its name to North Valley Community Foundation, with the objective of doing work in all of Butte, Glenn and Tehama counties. It later added Colusa County.

The foundation was run by volunteers for years until Bill Hubbard, who had been with the foundation since the beginning, became the first paid executive director in 1997. Hubbard left his position at the end of 2000.

Volunteer board members, especially Joan Stoner and Richard Matson, held the foundation together in the ensuing years until the board hired Alexa Benson-Valavanis to lead the organization in 2005. Benson-Valavanis was the only employee and had an initial annual budget of $35,000. She quickly began the rebuilding effort.

During her time as president and CEO, Benson-Valavanis engineered a new business model focused on engaging and partnering with anyone with a dream to make the world better regardless of wealth, influence or resources. The foundation immediately started opening charitable project funds serving the North Valley and around the globe. We opened funds with zero dollars, and with no start-up costs or minimums so money wasn't a barrier to entry. Social entrepreneurs from 8 years old to 98 years old poured in with ideas to change the world.

NVCF went from serving a dozen clients to hundreds of clients within the first few years of the rebuild. Assets grew from a little over $1 million to more than $60 million and grants awarded increased from thousands of dollars to millions of dollars to our communities.

One of the most significant programs during the rebuilding years was called the Annie B's grant program. NVCF launched the first of its kind community-wide grant program that united hundreds of local nonprofits and thousands of donors. The 10-year program resulted in more than $15 million being raised for the local service providers.

By the time the Camp Fire struck the region, NVCF was a mighty team of six people, all but one of whom was a part-time employee. We had the trust, faith and track record necessary to transform overnight into the lead philanthropic disaster response organization after the fire. NVCF raised more than $70 million in donations from across the country after the Camp Fire devastated Butte County on Nov. 8, 2018.

Since then, NVCF has activated grant programs for the Bear/North Complex Fire, the Dixie Fire and others. In addition, NVCF distributed more than $3 million in response to the COVID-19 pandemic and more than $1 million for drought response in Glenn County.

In 2020 we launched Thrive, an initiative focused on the mental health and well-being of North Valley residents, including suicide prevention among young people.

The longtime core of our organization remains the same and growing — the nearly 500 funds started by community members and organizations who want to act on their ideas for social good anywhere in the world.

About

Our mission

Addressing the climate crisis requires action on several fronts. In addition to rapidly achieving deep emission reductions, we also need gigaton-scale carbon removal and sound strategies for adapting to climate change. Our solutions must respect

(carbon)plan

We're a nonprofit that analyzes climate solutions based on the best available science and data.

Our team analyzes the design and implementation of climate programs across the public and private sectors. Our work focuses primarily on carbon offsets, carbon removal, and climate risks. In all three areas, we aim to ensure the scientific integrity and transparency of climate services and solutions.

How we work

RESEARCH

We study fundamental climate science topics relevant to both mitigation and adaptation, and we analyze the implementation of climate programs to ensure that they line up with the science.

POLICY

We work with companies, nonprofits, and government organizations to develop robust climate programs, and we collaborate with journalists to raise public awareness and promote accountability.

SOFTWARE

We build open tools and resources to surface critical dimensions of climate solutions with interactive data and visuals, and we contribute to high-leverage open science and open source ecosystems.
